Vitamins to VEGA!

Vega, China Vitamins Manufacturer

18 th. Dec. 2023

Vitamins

The vitamin market fluctuated slightly. Some VB12 manufacturers raised prices, and the market was mostly waiting and watching. Some VB6 manufacturers still stopped reporting, and transaction prices gradually moved up. The market prices of VK3 rose slowly, and factory supply was tight, with intermittent suspensions. The supply of VB1 was tight, and the transaction price moved up; the manufacturers of VE and VC continued to stop reporting.

Amino Acids

The overall trend of amino acids is mainly stable. The factory quotation of Lysine Hcl has been slightly week currently, market price is around USD1295-1335/MT. The price of Lysine Sulphate is stable and some users replenished sulphate slightly, and market transactions have improved around USD685-720/MT. Threonine: The manufacturer's quotation is mainly stable, inquiry is average the market is expected to be stable in the short term.

API

The overall trend of API maintains a weak and stable operation, and product prices have not changed significantly. The price is at bottom and there is no much room for decline. However, market demand is average, and most customers still mainly purchase for rigid needs. Last week, florfenicol rebounded slightly due to the impact of raw materials, and some factories had tight delivery dates. The price of levamisole hydrochloride is strong and the market price has increased. Doxycycline, phosphatidine, Tylor, soil salt, etc. have basically remained stable.

Food Additives

The overall trend of food additives is stable. The prices of sweetener series products sucralose/aspartame/acesulfame potassium remain stable. The price of creatine monohydrate remains stable. Mainstream manufacturers still stop reporting. It is expected that the tight delivery trend will ease after January, and the market transaction price is around USD8.1-8.7/kg, and will continue to rise in the future; the prices of L-carnitine series products remain stable this week, and prices are expected to rise in the future; preservative products sodium benzoate/potassium sorbate series products due to Prices fell slightly due to market demand.
