Over the past half month, the VE market has experienced fluctuating price adjustments, with some traders selling at lower prices and causing temporary market pullbacks. However, producer quotations have remained firm. As the industry enters the upcoming concentrated maintenance season, market inquiries have increased significantly since this week. Meanwhile, Garden Biopharmaceutical announced that Garden Nutrition has completed its scheduled maintenance work and fully resumed cholesterol production lines on April 27, 2026.

Recently, Royal FrieslandCampina N.V. announced an investment exceeding EUR 90 million to strengthen its global competitiveness in high-value whey protein products and optimize its production network in the Netherlands. According to the company, the investment will improve production capacity and flexibility while integrating energy- and water-saving technologies and replacing older production lines. Once completed, the project is expected to reduce annual CO₂ emissions by approximately 16,000 tons and further enhance global supply capability and sustainability performance, with phased commissioning planned before 2028.
